at 2:30PM

at St. Michael Church
3430 St. Michael Blvd. NW

Aella (pronounced EYE-lah), one of the Amazons in Greek mythology, was known to be both fierce and strong. Her name “Aella” means “whirlwind” in Greek, making the name quite fitting for a flute duo. The Aella Flute Duo performs engaging programs in a variety of styles that appeal to a wide audience. Their mission is to entertain, engage and educate audiences of all ages through the incredible palette of sounds that can be produced by the different members of the flute family in an audience-friendly format. Denise Rotavera-Krain and Kelly Mollnow Wilson have Masters of Music degrees, are flute teachers and are involved in various symphonies and solo work. See www.aellafluteduo.com for more information.

This concert is FREE and there will be a reception afterwards.
